Ny E6 i Sørfold kan berøre opp til 30 kalkstriper

New E6 in Sørfold can have influence on 30 marble stripes

The Norwegian Public Roads Administration (SVV) plans a new E6 in the Sørfold municipality, mainly due to the new tunnel safety regulations. Up to 30 marble stripes are crossing the planned road (approx. 52 km). The Norwegian Speleological Society argued that most of those stripes should be investigated before any detailed planning was done. SVV agreed, and a field investigation will be carried out in June this year. We hope to see the report in the next issue of Norsk Grotteblad.
