Redningsøvelse 2019

The Norwegian Cave Rescue Team (NGRT) is member of the state-sponsored association of voluntary rescue organisations, which feels like a big family. This year's rescue training was in Svarthammarhola, Saltdal. Even though it seemed to be an easy project due to the big dimensions of the cave, they found a side passage which presented challenges in the form of some low and narrow passages.

All members are well trained, and this time they learned much about organisation and the special techniques of getting through tiny holes. Additional training was given in a gym on the Sunday.
