

Norsk Grotteblad nr 16, 1986

Teorien om dannelse av grotter ved forløsning

The theory of caves formed by redemption

The author states that all cave science so far has been completely mistaken in its attempts to explain the formation of caves based on geological and hydrological processes. Based on statements by the American Donald G. Davies, U.B. Gripeli reports that caves are formed by parapsychological, psychokinetic forces. He supports this theory by pointing a number of incidents from caving history.