

Norsk Grotteblad nr 27, Januar 1994

Verdens merkeligste fiskevatn

This is a story about a small lake in the south of Nordland. From time to time the lake disappears. The water flows down in a small hole at the bottom. After some time the lake was filled again. It is curious that the fishes are back immediately after refilling, which indicates that they have to live in underground systems while the lake is empty.