News from UIS

NGF is a member of the International Speleological Union (UIS). In UIS bulletin no. 40, under the heading "Regulations of speleological activities abroad" appears the following requirement: "all persons/expeditions are obliged to send materials published on the results of the investigation to the country where the investigations were carried out" The Executive Committee is of the opinion that UIS has put its finger on an important problem, and requests members to send such material to the relevant caving organization. In this issue Trevor Faulkner sets a good example.
