

Norsk Grotteblad nr 41, November 2003

Grønnhølet, ei lita men spesiell grotte

Grønnhølet, a small but special cave.

There is little traffic on Bjørnhågen in Nedre Glomdalen. On the whole, the caves are left alone. In the area of Bjørnhauggrotta and Jettegrytegrotta there are some small caves with entrances which are difficult to find. One of these is Grønnhølet. The cave is completely filled with limestone precipitates from floor to roof, shining in green. Possibly the colour is due to growth of algae.