

Norsk Grotteblad nr 5, Mars 1980

Bjynnhiet i Plurdalen

Bjynnhiet in Plurdalen

A dry entrance near the known Varghølet in Langfjellet was discovered by a youth caving group led by Einar Hortman and the author. A crawl eventually opens into an undulating, decorated passage, and a few side crawls have been pushed. A bear jaw gave the cave its name.