Heyphone i Camp David

HeyPhone in Camp David

NGRT (The Norwegian Caving Rescue Team) was in the spring of 2009 invited to meet with rescue personnel from the 330- and 337-squadrons according to their yearly "challenge week" - among other things in Slaraffenland in the Greftkjelen cave. We took the opportunity to test the HeyPhone equipment system from the Graft entrance to Camp David, and to stipulate possible problems with the transport of a stretcher from Camp David to Slaraffenland. We were able to prove that we during a rescue operation can establish contact between the entrance and Camp David. The distance between the two Heyphones was 450 meters.
