Book review: GROTTEN Norges ukjente underverden 2010 Tun Forlag

Professor Stein-Erik Lauritzen from the University of Bergen, has written a delicate book on caves, caving and underground activities in Norway and other countries. The subjects of the chapters in the book are varied and describes different topics - such as cave types, karst landscapes, development of caves, caving as a hobby and a profession, et c. - both from a scientific and a more personal point of view. This is at the same time the strength and the weakness of his impressive work. The scientific facts are supplemented with photos and other illustrations, making the book a "must have" for cave explorers in Norway and elsewhere. The book reviewer of this article has his reservations about the form of Lauritzen's presentation, but is positive about the project as a whole.
