

Reinvikgrotta

Reinvikgrotta

A new long cave, named Reinvikgrotta, was discovered and partly explored by Jan Harald Olsen and Tomas Husdal on October 5th 2013. More than 10 explorers have taken part in the survey so far. The cave has five entrances, but there are many other entrances in the area that may be connected to the main cave system. The potential is great, so much work remains. So far the cave is more than 7 km long and approx. 250 m deep.