Rumenske ekspedisjoner til Nord-Norge (1991-1992)

This is a short description of two Romanian expeditions to Northern-Norway in 1991 and 1992. The actions were a step in a series of similar expeditions in the karstic areas above the Polar circle, aiming to finalize a comparative study of karst in sub polar and temperate climates. The results will be published in the popular scientific publications from the Romanian Speleological Institute.
